

Fruits of thy labour – the floors!

Sanded and sanded they were

A lot of sanding where the old floors had been painted

A lot of sanding to level the bumps

A lot of care at transition points

Less sanding of the old original flooring which had never been finished

Leave the defects, they add character

Four coats of Varathane

In the pantry under the stairs

A warm glow in the living room

Cast iron cold air register goes in the hole

Steve's office

Sunlight on the floor of the dining room

Steve did the sanding

And Kay did the finishing

You folks do beautiful work

Vanity top in the girls bathroom

The boys finished the ceiling in Kay's office

Flooring installer putting down the underlay

Towards the basement stairs

Cardboard template so there's no mistakes

Two piece bathroom floor underlay

The air stapler broke so he had to leave

Master bedroom reclaimed flooring

Donated by a kind neighbour

Awaits the sander

Cast iron tub receives bottom paint

Bayfield River is back to normal

A historic stone house was burned in a fire while I was away

Used only for storage it's believed critters started the fire – big loss

I found this horse while we were on holidays

And a design to consider for another project in 2009
