

- THE FARM -

- - Built of local brick around 1850 by the current owners Great, Great Grandfather. The wooden addition to the rear was built about 1875. Located on the Bayfield River on a farm east of Bayfield, it is a postcard picture in real life.
- We have embarked on its restoration including sympathetic additions using a collection of period architectural pieces collected for this purpose - Ken

First day on site, my first photo

Fireplace was hidden in box wall

Very short doors – Sign of the times

But a grand entrance

Note the rise of the stairs

The upstairs bedrooms

Bedroom chimney - Steep climb!

Aluminum siding over asphalt shingles over board and batten siding over walnut shells in the walls left by squirrels & wallpaper nests.

Original soffit crown & dentil mouldings preserved since addition was built in 1875.

Original oil painting of the house from late 1800's showing three chimneys and a front porch (no sign one was ever attached, probably artistic license).

From the Truck window as I left
