

Excavating for sewer, hydro, water

Stripping topsoil for the porch

Domed rock unearthed

In the trenches

Laying in some fine gravel

Starting from the house addition

Steve's homemade eavestrough (that would be "gutter" in the USA)

Rain overnight, swollen river

Typar and strapping for siding

I'm headed home

Framing in the garage windows

The boys were shingling

Windows rescued from the 1875 addition, used in the garage

Deck off the Master Bedroom

New frames, old sash

Garage gable windows came from the original Bayfield Dairy

Between the upper and lower sash (November 4, 1951 newspaper)

A fine looking window when Steve gets the thing painted!

Brad putting on the Typar

Windows overlook the river

Hole for the garage gable window

It's hot, it's Friday, I'm outta here

Triumphator Lily at our house

More lilies from our garden

And more for the viewers
