

Weekend is over

---

Steve is away, he's left some notes

Notes on the baseboards

---

Primed and prepped

---

Dave's notes

Original staircase from the house to be broken down and used again

---

Everything laid out, ready to go

---

I get to dismantle the old cabinet

---

Piece by piece – no damage!

---

1/2 dovetail on the shelves

---

Pull off the backboards

---

Doors have been removed

---

Big square nails held it together

---

15 1/2" backboard removed

---

Wild turkeys in a field

---

Crown molding

---

Richard fires up the planer

---

Adjusting the table

---

Sizing the baseboards

---

Straight cut one side, angle cut on the other side, chiseled center

---

Creates a tight joint

---

Someone did these by hand

---

That's the top board

---

Grain painting

---

On top of wallpaper!

---

A lot of wood chips from the planer

---

Tenon in the face piece

---

Slipping the joints (gently)

---

Up, up and away

---

Upside down – sides & shelves

---

Tap out the shelves

---

Almost apart

---

Steven – I've got a job for you!

---

Now to pluck the old stairs for useable bits

---

I'll even use the angled pieces

---

J.C. likes the heat from the lamp

---

Richard test out the bookcase

---

Slip it in the hole under the stairs

Attach cleats around the opening

---

Push it in place and attach from the front

---

Granary boards for the back

---

Adjustable shelves top & bottom

---

Clamp the last board in place

---

Just like that, a door appears

---

Made from the original partition upstairs in the house

---

Pull off the clamps now

---

The Bayfield River has flooded overnight after heavy rains

---

Not quite as bad as the last time

---

Hot air register in the living room

---

Cold air register as well

---

Copper wire handle

---

Richard's temporary pull

---

Single board for Kay's desk

---

Lining the Pantry with pine boards

---

A warm glow

---

Flooding to the rear of the house

---

Not since 1948 says Stan

---

Rushing under the Kinburn Bridge

But the house sits up on a knoll and the river has crested

---
